

I am strongly opposed to further relaxing media ownership rules. One would be hard pressed to prove that the value of a media conglomerate is of greater worth than providing a variety of voices in the news and entertainment realms. The former only truly benefits the few. The latter benefits the entirety of the populace. Please stand up for the people of the U.S., not a handful of corporations.